DOWNTOWN HONOLULU

Downtown Honolulu stands alone. Where most city business and entertainment districts are centered around one geographic area, Honolulu's downtown is strictly business. Approximately 75% of Hawaii's major business and government activities are centered in a five-block radius. There is also a vast assortment of dining, entertainment and shopping options in this area, but there is only one hotel.

ASTON at the EXECUTIVE CENTRE HOTEL

Downtown Honolulu's only hotel is ideal for the serious business traveler who wants convenience, full business amenities and exceptional service.

Located in the heart of the financial and government district, Aston at the Executive Centre Hotel occupies the top floors of a 40-story glass tower.

The Executive Centre Hotel is within walking distance of the State Capitol, Federal and City government offices and many of Hawaii's top 250 companies.

There are outstanding views of the city and Honolulu Harbor. And when the workday ends, Chinatown, Aloha Tower Marketplace, the Hawai'i Theatre and the State Art Museum are all within walking distance.

The hotel offers business and one-bedroom suites, an Executive Club Room with WiFi, daily continental breakfast, complimentary newspaper, free high-speed Internet access, kitchenettes and daily maid service.

Hukilau Honolulu, just off the lobby, provides lunch, dinner and a convenient meeting spot.

This is the business center of Honolulu, but the hotel is also a quiet retreat when you want to get away.
